RICHARD GRANT WHITE.—The Boston Transcript says:

The publication of Richard Grant White's Life of Shakspeare, so full of the ripe results of careful thought and extensive research, presents a good opportunity for stating some facts relating to his services to the National cause during the war. A Concord farmer, when the report came that England was on the point of recognizing the Confederacy, said to a friend, that if England was going to come out on the side of these fellows, "all I can say is, that Lord Lyons is perfectly welcome to my copy of Shakspeare." Mr. White kept his Shakspeare, but went resolutely to work to remove the English public of the errors by which its judgment was misled. No English journal has shown more ability, knowledge and earnestness in the defense of the American cause than the London Spectator, and none has had a more intelligent, judicious and trustworthy American correspondent. The New York letters over the signature of "A Yankee," which appeared weekly in that paper, were written by Mr. White, and were not only admirable in statement, argument, and tone, but were skillfully adapted to the minds they were intended to inform and influence. That they did have great effect on English opinion we know from indisputable evidence. We have seen a private letter from an Englishman, whose business it was to watch the changes and fluctuations of the public mind, in which the effect produced by this correspondence is very pointedly declared. Alluding to the period when the "Union cause was very little understood" in Great Britain, the writer says: "In those days the letters of 'A Yankee,' as I know, had great influence upon public opinion, and did very much toward strengthening the hands of the government in its determination to resist the overtures of the French Emperor to recognize the Southern Confederacy. Appearing when they did, and being manifestly the views of a moderate man, I do not know of any writings on American affairs which had more influence; and it is not too much to say that they helped the Northern cause as much indeed as any army could have done." In another London journal, the Reader, with which Herbert Spencer is connected, and which, while it leads all the English weeklies in matters relating to science, is hardly second to any in respect to the excellence and vigor of its literary criticisms, Mr. White wrote the series of letters signed "A New Yorker." These appeared at a time when many English newspapers of influence were echoing the libels on Northern morals and manners started by such renegades as Dr. Nichols and "Manhattan," and that they did something to change the tone of feeling toward us on social matters is proved by the fact that the misrepresentations and falsehoods they exposed soon ceased to appear in decent journals as foundations for assaults on American society. It is almost needless that Mr. White, like most every other American man of letters, has been indefatigable in working for the National cause at home. Of his political writings, the most celebrated was The New Gospel of Peace, which did Copperheadism more harm than even its own folly and malignity could do, and of which 100,000 copies were circulated. Thousands of the "President's opposition," unaffected by fact, argument and appeal, were overpowered by this most searching and humorous of political satires.

DANIEL WEBSTER AS A FISHERMAN.—A correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce, who seems to have been the furnisher of boats and tackle for fishermen, writes from Little Falls, on the Upper Potomac, a few miles from Georgetown, as follows, respecting one of his regular patrons:

Foremost among the fishermen was Daniel Webster, when Secretary of State. He used to come here always early in the morning, and accompanied by his private secretary. He liked the fresh morning air as much as any man I ever saw, and when he talked to me freely about fish and fishing, I could believe he had been in the business all his life. He was always liberal, and where other men would give me one dollar for a morning's sport he would give me ten. And for an old man, as he was, he was a good fisherman. I remember well the day he caught the biggest rockfish. I had taken him in one of my boats to the "cutting rock," and as we swung across the roaring waters, the great man clapped his hands like a child. The fish weighed sixteen pounds and gave him much trouble, and when I gaffed the prize and we knew it was safe, he dropped his rod in the bottom of the boat, jumped to his feet and gave a yell—a regular Indian yell—which might have been heard in Georgetown. He came often, was always pleasant in his ways, generally on the ground as early as five o'clock, and once he gave me as a reason for winding up the sport at nine, that he was obliged to be at the Department before noon.

FROM WAR EAGLE MOUNTAIN.—"Distance lends enchantment to the view," saith the poet, and we never so fully realized its truth as one day last week while viewing the great, barren, and apparently God-forsaken Snake River valley from the summit of War Eagle mountain. It is a magnificent view from this standpoint, and can be seen for two hundred miles as it stretches away to the east and west. The valley is fifty to seventy-five miles wide, with tortuous, rushing, rocky Snake river threading its almost useless waters through it. Excepting where an occasional mountain stream, which has volume enough to reach the river without sinking, the valley is one vast sage, alkali and barren lava plain, with here and there hillocks of sand [illegible] the winds into picturesque shapes. All this looks enchanting from the summit of War Eagle mountain, and had we not travelled down and up this valley, and through these [illegible] and beauties our wondering nature would have been fully aroused. Looking across the Snake valley, the Boise mountains are plainly seen, south, east and west a variety of mountains [illegible] that would furnish an artist a rich lay out. Smooth, bald, rocky, sharp, cone shaped, [illegible]. War Eagle is one [illegible] probably richer in gold and silver bearing quartz than any in the world. Already near a hundred ledges have been discovered, and many are in process of rapid development.—Idaho Herald.

STONEWALL JACKSON.—The popular belief is that Stonewall Jackson fell by an accidental fire from Confederate troops. The following gives a different version:

The testimony is clear that at the time Jackson met his death the First Massachusetts regiment was in position where it was supposed by several rebel officers that a rebel regiment was stationed. To the regiment in that position, and at that time, rode out a cavalcade of rebel horsemen, received a volley, and retreated in just the manner Jackson and his party rode out and were fired upon and retreated. So there can be hardly a doubt that the cavalcade fired upon by the Massachusetts regiment was Jackson and staff, and that it was from Union soldiers, and not from rebels, that Jackson received his death wound.

SUFFRAGE IN NEVADA.—The Union party of Nevada, in its recent State Convention, adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, Inasmuch as the right of suffrage is limited by the Constitution and laws of the State of Nevada to the loyal white man, we are therefore opposed to changing our organic and statute law in this respect, and are in favor of the Federal Government in the recognition of the State Government of the so-called seceded States, limiting the right to the loyal white men, until time and experience shall demonstrate that it is impracticable to recognize said State Government on such basis.

THE GREAT OVERLAND EXPEDITION.—The great army wagon train for the Plains, which left Washington on August 29th, passed Columbus, Ohio, on September 22d. A dispatch says the train consists of two hundred and fifty wagons, two ambulances and six forges, under the direction of Captain Mandeville, Quartermaster of the Fifth Corps. Each wagon is drawn by six mules, and in addition there are [illegible] extra mules for every twenty-five teams, making in all [illegible] mules. The drivers, the majority of whom are freedmen, seem to be perfectly contented, and have no choice as to whether the train shall stop at Leavenworth or San Francisco.

THE CHICAGO TUNNEL.—The distance now reached in Chicago lake tunnel for the waterworks is 3,000 feet, and the work is progressing at the rate of 17 feet a day. The authorities confidently expect a completion of this gigantic labor of tunneling the lake for two miles, and the accompanying works, by the close of next year. The city has over 129 miles of water pipe laid and in operation. The income from the water rate for the last fiscal year was $224,992.

ORDERS FOR CORN.—The New York Independent says: "There are large orders for corn to be shipped to Europe, which cannot be filled owing to the lack of sound, merchantable corn in market. Immense quantities have been received here, but as it comes chiefly in canal boats, it has been found on arrival to be damaged by heat, and before it can be sent abroad will have to be kiln dried or put into store to be cooled."

TRIAL OF CAPT. WIRTZ.—The Andersonville Jailor, on being brought into Court, September 23d, was laid down upon the sofa, still being too weak to sit up. Some further testimony for the prosecution was heard, including that of a colored soldier who testified that Wirtz proposed to the colored prisoners that if they would take the oath of allegiance to the South, they could choose their own masters. This witness testified that some of the guard said that they had heard Wirtz declare he would make the white prisoners join the Confederates by starving them. Capt. Wirtz brought to Dr. White 3,000 letters addressed to Union soldiers and gave them to Capt. [illegible] wife, who took everything from the letters, such as money, pictures, etc. She made fun of the contents of the letters and then ordered the witness to burn them. Witness heard the prison physician boast of having poisoned Yankee prisoners. Other testimony to cruelties endured by the prisoners was given. The Judge Advocate then announced that the Government would informally close the evidence at this stage of proceeding, reserving the right, however, to examine witnesses who may be found touching new matter, and he would offer some documentary evidence showing the connection of the Richmond authorities with the atrocious treatment of captured National soldiers. The counsel for the prisoner then asked for an adjournment of the trial for one week on account of the prisoner's ill health. The request was refused, and the court decided to proceed with the case on the 26th of September.

THE CANADIAN EXODUS.—The Montreal Herald says that Canada is being depopulated. The Catholic Bishop of Toronto lately stated that the great loss of people which his diocese had experienced, prevented him from rebuilding St. Patrick's Church at present. He said: "The young men are leaving the country in every direction." His clergy, at the last retreat had given him a census of their parishes. At the last Government census in 1861, the Catholics of Toronto diocese numbered 12,000 souls. By that given on the occasion referred to, it was found to contain only 30,000. In Toronto city alone, Catholics have gone away to the States to obtain employment to the number of 4,000. We have therefore, but 8,000 left. In Lower Canada it was much the same. The people were leaving it in tens of thousands. Similar statements in reference to Lower Canada have appeared in all the French Canadian papers.

PROFITABLE FOWLS.—The Carson, (Nevada,) Appeal has the subjoined encouraging item for the wives of farmers, who will see from it how to realize "pin money" independently:

Mrs. Lucy Asher, of Carson Valley, has met with more complete success in keeping and raising poultry than anybody we know of in this State. From twenty four hens, in six months, she obtained eggs which she sold for $11, besides which, she reserved a sufficient number to raise 500 chickens, hatched by the same twenty-four hens. Every one of these chickens are living and thriving. The hens must have been as industrious as their mistress is fortunate.

THE MAINE ELECTION.—Official returns from 451 towns and cities in Maine give Governor Cony 53,440 votes to 31,332 for Howard, making Cony's majority 22,832, a clear Union gain of 6,049 over last year. The towns yet to be heard from will cast less than 2,000 votes, and last year were about equally divided between the Republicans and the Democrats.

It is very likely, says the New York Herald of the 23d ult., that the marked decline in Irish immigration for the past few months, since the close of war, may be attributed to Fenianism in Ireland and this country. Quite a large number of officers of the Federal army have gone to Ireland since last April, and they have no doubt advised the people against emigration.

An Ohio orator urges that the cries of "Social equality" are ridiculously false, illustrating his argument as following: "Because Vallandigham votes, does it follow that any decent man is forced to speak or associate with him."

John Minor Botts has written another letter to Virginia, advising them to elect men to the next Congress who have not been mixed up in the late rebellion. Any others, he assures them, will not be admitted.

According to official reports, Missouri furnished 104,757 soldiers for the war. St. Louis sent more than one-third of the number.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

SATURDAY MORNING OCTOBER 28, 1865

Revival of Commercial Enterprise

During the late rebellion there was an unparalleled reduction in the number of vessels comprising our commercial marine. Our coast trade except between Northern ports was entirely suspended. The hundreds of harbors that lie between the Chesapeake and the Rio Grande were closed against the rich commerce that formerly floated upon their waters. Vessels no longer sailed from Savannah, Charleston or Mobile for Havana or Rio. Our Intercontinental commerce, too, was almost wholly lost. Rebel privateers drove our merchant ships from the seas. As the number of our men of war was augmented, the number of our merchantmen decreased. Even our East India and China trade was affected by the war. English ships were reaping a harvest while our own were lying idle. By permitting new privateers to escape from their ports to prey upon our commerce, the British sought to have this state of things continue. After the battle of the Nile, or rather after Trafalgar, France had neither armed ships nor a commercial marine. England could not hope to destroy our splendid navy, as she had that of France, but she desired to compel our merchantmen to quit the seas. She could not expect, even to reduce us to the situation in which France was placed in the early part of the present century, but her object was, if possible, to achieve a not less important victory by taking such a course as would give the commerce of both hemispheres to her own people. Hence she wished the rebellion to be prolonged. Hence she let loose her pirates upon us, nor stopped the infamous business until she saw that her only alternative for its continuance was war.

But the trade which we lost is not only reviving, it may be said to be restored. American ships are now engaging again in foreign trade. English vessels have no longer the exclusive monopoly which they so unfairly won. Our coast trade has suddenly revived and assumed almost the importance which it had before the war. The cotton which has long been hidden in the South, is now finding its way to the seaboard, to be transmitted to the North. The demand for Northern productions at the South is also very large. It is limited by nothing except the ability of the people in that section to purchase what is offered them. In a year or two more, the trade between the two parts of our great country will be more extensive than it has ever been.

To give an idea of the extent of our coasting trade it will be sufficient to direct the attention to the coastwise lines of steamships which belong to New York alone. These vessels, all of which are plying between the ports of our own country on the first of September, numbered one hundred and twenty one. In the enumeration no mention is made of the great number of steamships that are plying from New York to Vera Cruz, Aspinwall and Havana. Besides these steam vessels there is an uncounted multitude of ships, brigs, barks and schooners constantly leaving the same port for all points on the coast. This revival of commercial enterprise is the work of but a few months. A single year ago, an occasional vessel left New York for New Orleans, the only open port on the Southern coast. Now the trade of former years is resumed, and we may expect to see its fruits in the wonderful growth of all parts of the country. The war arrested our commercial progress, but we are now springing forward again, and ere long our country will reach a height of commercial prosperity and greatness never hitherto attained nor even attainable by any other nation upon earth.

HAVE HAD ENOUGH OF WAR.—At the South as well as in the North, there are two classes of men who think and act very differently in regard to the Government. The Copperhead factionists and secession impracticables of the North agree exactly with a corresponding class of Union and freedom haters at the South. These persons are in a hopeless and constantly decreasing minority in the States which remained loyal through the rebellion. In the States lately disloyal, they appear also to be outnumbered by men of better views and more rational modes of thinking. We do not refer now to the pestilent State of South Carolina, which appears to have reiterated all her former treasonable doctrines by electing Wade Hampton for Governor. That State for the present, is quite incorrigible. But we allude to the remainder of the Southern States generally, which now seem disposed to yield submission at least, if not a support to the Government. Probably fear of chastisement rather than love for the Union, is the guiding motive with them just now, but patriotism will grow again even in the soil where treason has flourished. In speaking of the submission of the South to the Government and the undesirableness and impossibility of any future rebellion, the Wilmington (N. C.) Herald says:

"The politicians and statesmen of the North if they know anything, and certainly they are endowed with ordinary wisdom—know that the South is controlled by equal wisdom and intelligence. In the light of the experience of the past fifty years, it will hardly be contended that the Southern statesmen and politicians are all fools. But certainly none but fools would think of further resistance to the authority of the United States. The idea is not entertained in the South by any class of people. And on all the questions which affect our loyalty to the General Government we challenge a comparison of our position with that of the people of Northern States. We indignantly spurn the taunt that we require soldiers to keep us in subjection. Do those who pretend to be our friends at the North mean to insult us, after we have surrendered all our means of resistance, by basely imputing to us intentions of resisting? Resist! how? Is the South in any condition to fight? If six months ago when we had an army and resources of strength, we could not resist the power of the North, but were compelled to surrender, is it supposable that we are such idiots as to fancy that we can resist now that this army is broken up and scattered and we are shorn of all our organization and resources? It is worse than idle to talk such nonsense. We contend that the South is as loyal to-day to the General Government as any section of the country. The heresy of secession is thoroughly eradicated from among us. We have no desire to repeat the experiment of a separate government. Our experience has been ample."

"EXPEDIENCY."—The principles of the Democratic party are something more than mere questions of expediency.—Review.

Indeed! Wasn't George B. McClellan an "expediency" candidate last year, and didn't your own party members, Long, Harris and Powell, tell us so? And didn't the Review refuse to support McClellan, the "expediency" nominee until after it had seen whether the platform was built on peace secession principles? A look at the "Democracy of the East just at this juncture will give the Review a new idea or two on this "expediency" business. How about the Abolition "expediency" platform of the party in New York at the present time? If as the Review asserts, the "principles of the Democratic party are something more than mere questions of expediency," they amount to no more than a scramble after the wished for offices and an utter abandonment of all principles in order to get them.

The State-rights secession members of the "Democratic" party in New York refuse to sanction the recent action of the party in abandoning its old principles. They recently held a meeting at the Cooper Institute and denounced the platform as absolving them from all obligation to support the party ticket.

Mace and Wormald, two ruffians of hard skulls and brutish instincts, are to bruise each other for the "champion belt" of England on the first of November.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO OCTOBER 25

General Grant's Report.

WASHINGTON Oct. 24.—General Grant's report of the active military operations for 1864 and 1865 is now finished and will soon be sent to the Secretary of War.

It is reported that Wirz has been found guilty of the charge [illegible] and that he will be executed [illegible] Monday.

Mexican Loan in New York

NEW YORK, Oct [illegible] the Republican Government of Mexico [illegible] an agency at 57 Broadway, and [illegible] General John W. Corlies [illegible] Agent of the Republic. A large number of [illegible] payable in [illegible] twenty years from October [illegible] interest payable [illegible] pledge of the faith of the Republic [illegible] having the effect of a mortgage [illegible] of 5,000,000 [illegible] million acres of mineral lands in the States of [illegible] valued at [illegible] dollars per acre. The [illegible] hundred dollars per cent of the face of the bonds.

Result of the South Carolina Election.

NEW YORK, Oct [illegible]. The Herald's Charleston dispatch says: James L. Orr, formerly speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States received a majority of votes in Charleston for Governor and the [illegible] known as the Mechanics and Workingmen's ticket was successful.

A correspondence between Secretary Seward and Governor Perry is published, in which the latter in response to inquiries as to when he shall cease to exercise the functions of his office is informed that he is expected to continue to act until relieved by order of the President.

The Herald's correspondent says that returns from every part of the State indicate that Wade Hampton has been undoubtedly elected Governor of South Carolina. In the city of Charleston the vote stands for Orr, [illegible] for Hampton [illegible]. In the parishes the vote stands 2250 for Hampton [illegible] giving Hampton a majority of 400 votes in this district alone.

General Howard, Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau, on the 19th in an address explanatory of the objects of the Freedmen's Bureau and his present visit to the South, delivered in presence of Mayor McGrath, the Common Council and prominent citizens of Charleston, made some important announcements. The General spoke of the hostile feelings toward the Bureau in Charleston. The Mayor acknowledged it and said he had no hope for the country until civil government was restored. The General said this was the clamor of the politicians, but that he had generally found the planters favorable to the continuance of the Bureau. He himself as well as the President wished that civil law should be again untrammeled by military power, but the negro is having [illegible] at the present, and the masters need some guarantee for the safety of their interests, and until the State allowed freedmen to testify in the Courts, he was free to say the Bureau would continue. The President, he said, would be very clear of surrendering the State to civil law until a stop was put to the outrages on the blacks. The General gave encouraging replies to the planters who are seeking the restoration of their property. He said he hoped to see wholesome laws guaranteeing the rights of freedmen, passed by the Legislature and the present difficulties between the two races settled. He announces the purpose of establishing courts to consist of an Army officer and two citizens, to take cognizance of the present complaints by or against the colored people. General Howard subsequently addressed the negroes and then took his departure for the capital to confer with Governor Perry.

The South Carolina Legislature lately elected assembles in extra session to day.

The Tax Question at the South.

WASHINGTON, Oct 25. Freeman Clark, Controller of the currency has written a reply to the card of Governor Pierpont, in which the latter said he never asserted that the people of the South would not be taxed to pay the national debt, and Clark unqualifiedly asserts that he did express such sentiments.

Southern State Conventions.

NEW YORK, Oct 25.—The State Conventions of Florida and Georgia meet to day in extra session. Texas is the only Southern State lately in rebellion which has not elected members or called a Convention for the purpose of reconstruction under the proclamation of the President.

California News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 27.—The overland line is still down in Iowa.

The Jefferson Gold Mining Company has declared a dividend of fifteen dollars per share payable immediately in Marysville.

The ship Northern Crown, which arrived from London to day, brings thirty miles of submarine telegraph cable for the California State Telegraph Company, with which they intend to cross the Straits of Fuca and complete their line to Victoria, V. I.

Markets.

The stock market remains dull and prices rule in favor of buyers. Legal Tenders are inactive, the nominal price being about 70¼ and 70½.

Flour, $6 62½ ⅌ bbl for standard brands extra and $6 25@6 50 for superfine in half and quarter sacks. A brisk demand prevails with some export inquiry. Wheat—there is considerable speculation between buyers and sellers and the market is still unsettled; sales since our last foot up 7,765 sacks, including 1,700 sacks strictly prime at $2 00, 185 do No 1 at $1 97½, 700 do at $1 95, 590 do No 2, at $1 90 at the railroad depot, and 22[illegible] at $1 8[illegible] coast. Barley—sales include 1,000 sacks of prime brewing at $1 40 and 1,250 do [illegible] $1 90 ⅌ 100 lbs. Oats—1,000 sks at $1 40@1 50 ⅌ 100 lbs.

Arrived—Ship [illegible], 200 days from London; ship [illegible], 1[illegible]5 days from Bordeaux; steamer Orizaba, from Portland.

Sailed Oct 26th brig [illegible] for Puget Sound; Oct 27th bark [illegible], Puget Sound; bark [illegible], Bellingham Bay.

News from the North

SEATTLE, Oct 27. The steamer Anderson arrived from Victoria last evening.

The bark [illegible] sailed from Victoria on the 24th with a large cargo of English goods for San Francisco.

The British Columbian Government have dispatched men to build a bridge over the Cayoosh creek, and survey a trail to the Bridge river diggings.

There was a run on the Bank of British Columbia on the 21st inst by a few small holders of notes, but every demand was promptly met, and the run was at an end by 11 10 A. M. Business men took but little notice of the rumor that the bank had failed.

The lock up in this city was broken open last night and its inmates, three in number escaped.

The weather has been very favorable for farmers gathering crops during the past week, but is now closing up with every indication that the rainy season is about to set in.

ATTEMPT AT ROBBERY.—We learn that an attempt was made a few days ago near Butteville to rob a gentleman named Case who resides a short distance from Champoeg. Mr. Case was riding along the road when he was met by a man who with revolver in hand seized his bridle and ordered him to dismount. Another robber also armed stood in the bushes near by. Mr. Case happened to have a pistol which he drew quickly and fired causing his assailant to release his hold upon the horse. Both robbers returned the fire but their shots did not take effect. One ball however grazed Mr. Case's head. He made his escape without injury. The robbers were unknown in that part of the country. One of them seemed to be wounded by the affray.

THE CONFEDERATE LOAN.—[illegible] English Vice Chancellor [illegible] that the late Confederate [illegible] the government of [illegible] rights and obligations [illegible] interest [illegible] claims [illegible] United States [illegible]

We are of opinion that these claims will not be very "strongly fortified" by this decision, unless the United States can be brought to acknowledge that the decision is just and right. It would be far more sensible for the hard bitten English never to let their losses be known than for them to resolve that the United States ought to pay them.

The Canadians have refunded a considerable part of the money which their rebel pets stole from the St. Albans Banks. Eventually they will have to pay it all.

Several Irish officers lately connected with the United States service are going to Ireland. Among them are General [illegible] and General Sweeny. Both these officers are prominent Fenians. When they next draw the sword it will be to achieve the independence of their native land.

[illegible] OF THE COMMON COUNCIL.—The regular weekly [illegible] of the Common Council was held at the council [illegible], at 7 o'clock last evening, Mayor Failing presiding.

All members were present: Messrs. Clarke, [illegible], McCraken, Morgan, Plummer, Rosenbaum, Schuyler and Thompson.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Petitions for sundry licenses [illegible] granted.

[illegible] J. H. Perry & [illegible] a proposition to take some [illegible] [illegible] for the McC[illegible] [illegible] Front st[illegible] [illegible] was placed on file.

The committee on ways and means submitted a report [illegible] in the improvement of [illegible] the [illegible] setting forth that the [illegible] been unable, on account of the [illegible] to have their being substantially [illegible] an appropriation of $200 [illegible] The report was laid on the table temporarily.

The same committee submitted a report [illegible] for the improvement of Front street, [illegible] the Messrs. J. H. Perry & Co. were willing to take the same from the city and retain possession of [illegible] amount, to wit: $1,335 61. The [illegible] to place the deeds on record [illegible] a lot of the city [illegible] in block 109 in the county clerk's office. The [illegible] on streets and public property were next [illegible] to make a quit claim of the property to Messrs. Perry & Co.

[illegible] on streets and public property reported [illegible] the contract of Jonathan Taylor for the [illegible] the [illegible] pavement completed [illegible] of the work when a warrant [illegible] due Mr. Taylor was [illegible].

The same committee reported that the bill of J. H. Perry & Co., for extra work done on Front street [illegible] and Harrison streets was [illegible] authorized for the amount [illegible] City Surveyor Burrage, in accordance with instructions from the Council, reported an estimate of the cost [illegible] of Washington street, as approved by the [illegible] the west line of Front street and east line of Park street to be $15 [illegible] estimate [illegible] to the committee on streets and public property.

[illegible] were authorized [illegible] liquidation of [illegible] city as follows—J. McNamee, for repairs to [illegible] the intersection of First and Morrison; [illegible] A. M. Shark, for three coats of paint to the [illegible] Van Engine Company; $[illegible]; J. N. [illegible] & Co., locks and staples for Plazas, [illegible]; J. H. [illegible], [illegible] and fitting lamp posts, $[illegible]; [illegible] new iron lamp posts [illegible] painting and furnishing [illegible]; [illegible] on contract for county [illegible] sewers.

[illegible] ordinances were passed:

[illegible] authorizing the committee on ways and means to borrow $3,400 on behalf of the city for the [illegible] of navigation on the Willamette river and [illegible] the same to the fund raised for that purpose, by defraying [illegible] and accruing indebtedness.

[illegible] the same committee to [illegible] of $1,700 00 in legal tender notes, giving the [illegible] of the city for the coin value of the loan, with interest [illegible] in four months.

[illegible] an appropriation of $5,410 46 in [illegible] for the purpose of cancelling judgment [illegible] against the city.

[illegible] declaring a deficit of assessment for the [illegible] of Front street between the [illegible] street and the South line of Morris[illegible] for the collection of the same.

[illegible] declaring the probable cost of the [illegible] of Washington street, and an ordinance [illegible] the committee on streets and public property to [illegible] for the improvement of the same.

[illegible] authorizing the committee on fire and [illegible] with the Chief Engineer of the Fire De[illegible] to purchase a third-class steam fire engine of [illegible] make manufacture, for Protection Company [illegible] called to a third reading before being placed [illegible] final passage.

[illegible] Plummer begged to state that as chairman [illegible] committee on fire and water he had [illegible] the [illegible] Engine should have a new [illegible] and were justly entitled to it [illegible] for the passage of the ordinance, and [illegible] pass the Council. It would be some months [illegible] to pay for it would be required [illegible] to correspond with parties East and [illegible] before deciding upon terms and with [illegible] that the means would not be [illegible] his vote.

[illegible] McCracken stated that he should vote [illegible] for the reason that while he fav[illegible] the Company with a good engine, he was [illegible] on account of its being an [illegible] with the financial con[illegible] for the coming year. He had been [illegible] one of the members, with the [illegible] a work setting forth the [illegible] fire engine, most prominently of [illegible] of a large stream of water to be [illegible] buildings. In this he conceded that [illegible] have no equal—but we have no such [illegible] and will be years before we go above three [illegible] in this city, we have one of the most effec[illegible] in the world, and their success with the [illegible] has proven that no matter when even at [illegible] the night, they have been successful in anni[illegible] and that too among inflammable [illegible]. As the city progresses and more fire-[illegible] frame structures erected, or when greater [illegible] be apprehended by the high valuation of [illegible] requires buildings to be constructed lock[illegible] the upper world, another style of engines [illegible]. [illegible] SEALS [illegible]

"SAM SLICK" HALIBURTON IN PARLIAMENT.—The London Morning Star, noticing the death of the author of "Sam Slick," says:

No doubt Thomas Chandler Haliburton was a disappointment after "Sam Slick." He [illegible] little old man, white of hair and rubicund of cheek, who took his seat some years back among the [illegible] was [illegible] like the sort of person on whom one would have looked for the parent of "Sam Slick." We need hardly say that Mr. Haliburton was a failure in the House of Commons. No one man in ten thousand entering it at his time of life could have his reputation could have proven anything but a failure and a disappointment. He had no voice, he had no manner. He displayed as a Parliamentary speaker none even of that pungency and [illegible] of expression which some years before had often amused English public dinners. When he did speak (on some question of colonial grievance) he was a dull, meandering prosy talker. He would have been voted a bore but that he rarely troubled the House, and that the House in conver[illegible] seldom sees a bore in a man of any sort of [illegible] intellect and fairly earned reputation. Mr. Haliburton was of the most antiquated and obsolete school of politics. He was a Tory with whom political belief was as a fixed religious faith. In politics he saw literally no salvation outside the pale of Toryism. We are not quite certain that he did not in his heart go in for the doctrine of Divine Right. Even the country Conservatives of the House looked with a sort of wonder on this faithful old Tory, for whom every dim ghost of a departed tradition had all the reality of a living and active presence. Indeed, properly to appreciate "Sam Slick," one required to think of the personality of its author. Where that personality did protrude itself upon the book in the shape of interjected orations and homilies against democratic institutions and dissent of any kind the reader felt at once as if a wet blanket had been flung over him. It was almost as if for a page of Pickwick there had suddenly come up before the eyes of a reader revelling in the [illegible] a dull and [illegible] page of [illegible]. So odd a contrast not merely between book and author but between one chapter of the same book and another immediately following it is not easily to be found in the literature of any time.

We published yesterday the proceedings of a meeting held at Walla Walla on the 18th to discuss the propriety of attaching that county to Oregon. The Statesman of the 20th publishes a call for an "anti annexation" meeting which was to be held last Thursday. One hundred citizens or more, signed the last call. The Walla Wallians it appears can't decide what to do. For ourselves we don't care whether they come to us or stay where they are.

The Democratic party were the friends of the soldiers of 1776, of 1812, of 1847 and they are the real friends of the soldiers of 1861.—Copperhead paper.

How about those tender and appreciative expressions—Lincoln's dogs," the "hirelings of despotism," &c., which "Democrats" were wont to apply to soldiers? And how about the "not a dollar" policy by which the "Democracy" tried to starve the soldiers in the field?

The trial of the rebel steamb at burners before a military commission began at St. Louis on the 19th of last month. It is quite likely that another lot of rebels is good for the hanging.

The Sacramento Union says the number of lives lost by the late steamboat explosion will reach seventy five and may amount to one hundred.

A rich seam of quartz was struck near Silver City by the workmen who were digging a road from the New York Company's mine to the mill.

There has been no run of salmon on the upper San Joaquin river and the Indians there are left in a state of starvation in consequence.

Some further discoveries of quartz on the west side of the Cascade Range, east of Olympia, have been made.

A few days since a wedding breakfast was given by a substantial farmer blessed with five daughters, the oldest being the bride, when a neighbor, a young farmer who was [illegible] red with [illegible] thinking no doubt he ought to say something smart and complimentary upon the event, addressing the bridegroom, said: "Well, you have got the pick of the batch!" The countenances of the four unmarried ones as may be imagined, were awfully indignant.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.—The San Jose Mercury has the following among its earthquake items: [illegible] Gilroy, an old pioneer, says that in 1812 or 1813, we are not positive as to date, an earthquake shook down all the buildings in this part of the country, which buildings were then chiefly built of adobes, and one story high. That the cattle even partook of the general consternation, and [illegible] bellowing and frightened over the plains.

THE OFFENSE IS RANK.—We hold it inexcusable in any person, male or female, when they subject us to an annoyance which a very little trouble on their part would obviate. Especially is this the case where the unfortunate possessor of a bad breath will persist in button holding and intruding his views upon us. [illegible] manifest mental and physical discomfort. Of Portland,

FIRST PREMIUM ON BOOTS!

HE TAKES THIS OPPORTUNITY TO INFORM his friends and the public generally, that he is prepared to make to order, in the latest style, French Double Bottom, Cork Sole, Water Proof Boots, Pump Channel Opera, and Wellington Boots.

He would recommend the French Double Bottom Cork Sole Water Proof Boots to those afflicted with Rheumatism, or cold feet during the rainy season in Oregon. And the Pump Boots to those wishing to trip the light fantastic toe.

If any want a fit, or wear,
Just call at Lumsden's shop,
For all the persons he will not spare
To please his friends who stop.

And if you wish more ease on earth
Your measure let him get—
Now call and hold your money's worth
He is the man, you bet.

He makes the Pump, the Opera Boot,
The Wellington and Cossack;
The Cork and Backstrap he can cut
And also make them quick.

The Roman sandal he can make
Or lady's slipper, either;
For all his genius is awake
To making Boots of Leather.

Sign of the Big Boot, on Alder street, between Front and First, opposite C. H. Mack, Dentist.

His superiority of Cash [illegible] of execution, and in durability of workmanship cannot be surpassed.

Prince de Joinville---His Views of the Three Great Navies

It will be remembered that the Prince de Joinville of the dethroned Orleans house served [illegible] years in the Army of the Potomac on the staff of McClellan and has since said and written many able things abroad in defense of the [illegible]. The Boston Advertiser of a late date publishes the following letter from him to a [illegible] Washington, which though written [illegible] ago, was April last is no the less interesting.

[illegible] House [illegible] SUREY
April 28, 1865

DEAR SIR — Just as I was going to write to you to congratulate you upon the great achievements of your fleets and armies, we heard of the terrible deed of the 14th and I have to mourn with you the loss of one of the greatest and best men of our age. The voice of posterity is already speaking and everywhere everybody is at length [illegible] the value of that good, honest and firm man.

The feeling of horror and indignation is universal in Europe, mixed with a great deal of alarm for the future. For myself I do not feel that alarm. I have always had faith in your country, and I have it still. Your energetic but wise country will find other pilots worthy of the task they will have to perform. I only say that if good Mr Seward is saved that task will be made much easier. I ardently hope that it will be the case, and that he will be spared for the good of his country and the affection of his friends.

But if he was to succumb, we have here in London in Mr Adams a firm, clear headed discreet man, who has very strongly impressed me with his value, and who, as far as my knowledge of him permits me to judge, would make a very efficient substitute.

I also hope that the dastardly act will be found to be the work of only a few desperadoes and that it will not stop that feeling of magnanimity in victory which your bitterest enemies are obliged to admire.

You have proved strong in war, unanimous in your national policy; your constitution has passed successfully and is going I fondly believe to pass successfully, through the several tests. Punish the assassins, but do not be rancorous; show yourselves as generous as you are strong. I take the liberty to suggest to you that wish because it is my only fear that those horrid assassinations, and the miserable exultation which they will not fail to provoke among the low minded of your enemies, shall bring with them a spirit of retaliation from which no good can come.

I wish to see your great country come out of all its troubles without any spot. I wish it for herself first, and also for the example. You defend not only your cause, but that of liberal institutions all over the world.

You must be proud, Sir, of the doings of your navy. With the brilliant exploit of Commodore Winslow has the tide of victory turned with you. The achievements of Mobile Bay are without parallel, and throw the greatest honor on your flag. All naval men pay a just tribute of admiration to Admiral Farragut and his brother officers and men. The war will leave your navy in a very efficient state, and with a feeling of confidence in itself which is half the success.

Not so in European navies. Ours is tired and disgusted by the odious service of transports imposed upon it. The British navy, after a long period of inaction and furnished with ships and men it has no confidence in, is not what it was formerly.

Both navies continue to build sea-going broadside ironclads of immense size and cost, but the policy of building such expensive ships, when they may be so easily sunk by a miserable torpedo, is much discussed, and the tide is coming to small ironclads with two or four guns, monitor fashion. For long cruises fast unclad screw sloops Alabama, or rather Florida fashion, seem to be most appropriate. Upon all these points you have the lead.

Here everybody is behind in gunnery. The best English gun is the 300-pounder smooth bore muzzle-loader, Armstrong gun, built on the coil principle, and able to throw a shot with a very heavy charge of powder. The royal navy has no good rifle gun of heavy calibre; but I think that Mr Blakely can turn out some very efficient ones.

The French have no heavy guns, smooth bore or rifle, and have not yet succeeded to experiment successfully upon any one. The best gun we have in use is a breech-loader rifle gun, throwing a 60-pound shot with low charge. That gun works well, is very accurate, but of no use against ironclads.

The Emperor is trying a gun of his invention rifled and made of steel inside and brass outside. I have no faith in it.

It is from the United States that we expect the production of the large rifled gun for sea service as soon as your clever workmen shall have turned their minds to the production of built-up guns of steel or wrought iron.

That heavy gun is much wanted, since the battle of Mobile has so much shaken the confidence in the employment of rams.

With the preceding gunnery chat, I close this letter. Be good enough to believe me always very sincerely yours,
F D'ORLEANS,
Prince de Joinville

I see in the papers a very bad letter of Mr Mason, the Confederate agent. I see also that the British Parliament is going to vote an address of sympathy at the occasion of the dreadful calamity. It is very proper. We Frenchmen are not free to act in a similar way, but I hope for the honor of our government that they will do something to show their sense of what is due to a friendly nation.

A-B AB.---Charlottesville is fairly entitled to be called the literary centre of the South. There is first, the University of Virginia, with its learned professors on all sorts of subjects. Then we have two large female seminaries, where young ladies learn thirty or forty things ending in ology. Then we have some half dozen first-class academies for boys. Then several select schools. Then a number of schools for the English branches. And then the whole colored population of all sexes and ages is repeating from morning to night a-b—ab, a-b—ab, &c, through all the varieties of the first lesson in orthography. There are some four or five colored schools, and little negro chaps darken every door with primers in their hands. If we pass a blacksmith's shop, we hear a-b—ab; if the cook goes out to suckle her infant, it is a-b—ab; the dining room servant washes up his dishes and plates, crying a-b—ab; the hostler curries his horse, repeating a-b—ab; Jerry blacks your boots, saying with rapid strokes, a-b—ab, the whole air is resonant with a-b—ab. The little yellow boy who sleeps in our chamber awoke us the other night, muttering in his dreams a-b—ab. Mr Greeley, has stirred up thunder here. If you send a little negro boy on an errand, he is spelling everything he meets in one syllable. The little white boys look at them wonderingly, and try to cork them. In a month or so, we expect to issue an evening edition of the Chronicle in monosyllables, to increase our circulation—perhaps a pictorial, with tubs and spades, and ants and cows, and owls and hats—like the primer.—Charlottesville (Va.) Chronicle

A Washington correspondent of the New York World says that two if not three of the members of the Cabinet are opposed to placing Jeff Davis on trial, preferring that he should leave the country forever.

Gov. Pickins of South Carolina, "who was born insensible to fear" and a great many other things, has applied for pardon.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WEEKLY REVIEW

PORTLAND, October 27th, 1865

In preparing our customary summary of business for the week we find that trade has maintained its usual satisfactory [illegible]. The weather [illegible] materially [illegible] general [illegible] of all [illegible] time past, but at the present writing [illegible].

We have [illegible] two steamships [illegible] the port [illegible] for violation of the [illegible] revenue laws. [illegible] in the district column, we [illegible] to the subject at this time, remarking that it is [illegible] alleged that they were engaged in illicit [illegible] between [illegible] and [illegible] Victoria, but the [illegible] law in the matter points to a possibility that such might have been the case.

The [illegible] Vancouver Island has been [illegible] that the only thing likely to save the British [illegible] that the [illegible] of the port of Victoria [illegible] the whole [illegible] that their sales [illegible] ought really to be set down at a much larger figure, and tells [illegible] that very [illegible] smuggling trade is [illegible] carried on to Oregon and California, of which no figures are kept. We quote:

For every [illegible] worth entered by our merchants and [illegible] for California [illegible] worth are bought [illegible] by Americans [illegible] never been mentioned. [illegible] foreign [illegible] this city may be computed to bring in a clear profit of [illegible] a year and the higher the American tariff goes the greater will be the [illegible] smuggle. It will be objected [illegible] that this trade is immoral. [illegible] that [illegible] Americans [illegible] worth of [illegible] allied nations.

Among the retrenchments in Government affairs [illegible] the Treasury Department, at the various Custom Houses throughout the United States with a view to [illegible] the expenses of collecting the revenue from customs [illegible] the [illegible] of all officers [illegible]. What [illegible] and when [illegible] clerk or inspector [illegible] perform the duties now performed by two, one will be discharged, and every officer will be required to earn his salary as far as it is possible to make him do so.

The money market is still at [illegible]. The receipts of treasure from the interior [illegible] four preceding weeks and the quarterly interests are well [illegible] [illegible].

The San Francisco Stock Market presents [illegible]. It is [illegible] that the yield of the [illegible] is increasing, which [illegible] of the Stock Market [illegible] disgraceful to those concerned [illegible]. There has been a great decline lately in the leading stocks of the San Francisco market. [illegible].

Real estate [illegible]. We have to [illegible] the transfer of one block within a reasonable distance of business [illegible] and one half miles out of the city [illegible] the buildings being worth nearly that sum.

The various suits have been the subject of [illegible] worthy of perusal and candid attention. Messrs. [illegible] & Co., are pushing the work of putting a strand [illegible] Pend d'Oreille lake with energy and they should [illegible] the city particularly and the State of Oregon generally.

Gold is nominally the same. Legal Tenders [illegible] 70 [illegible]. Exchange without alteration.

Wholesale and Jobbing Prices.

PORTLAND, October 27th, 1865.

There is an active demand for most articles in the wholesale and jobbing markets and prices are firm at previous quotations. In consequence of the scarcity of material, and the high price paid for it, soap of home manufacture has taken a strong upward tendency.

The market is not very settled. The demand for leading articles in the east to supply the late rapid inquiry for the southern trade has had a [illegible] effect on the San Francisco market, and it is felt [illegible]. Importers are [illegible] extensively [illegible] the increase in prices and holders are firm [illegible] pecting advances. It is likely to be some time [illegible] business will resume its settled condition and until such time stocks will not be very heavy.

A list of the leading articles of merchandise on the way to San Francisco on the 16th from domestic Atlantic ports, so far as specified by the manifests, shows 17 vessels from New York and two from Boston, from 44 to 180 days out, with full cargoes. Dolph, Esq, District Attorney on behalf of the United States against Two Trunks containing Merchandise, alleging in substance that the said goods were brought on the 30th day of May 1865 brought and imported from the port of Victoria in the foreign territory of British Columbia under the dominion of Her Britannic Majesty, into the said District and within the United States [illegible] and [illegible] Port Angeles [illegible] the said goods [illegible] and praying process against said goods [illegible] forfeited to the United States of America.

Now therefore in pursuance of the Warrant under the Seal of said Court to me directed and delivered I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming said merchandise in any manner interested therein that they be and appear before the said District Court [illegible] Portland on Monday the [illegible] day of November A. D. 1865 at 10 o'clock [illegible] of that day then and there to interpose their claims and make their allegations in that behalf.

Dated Oct 16th 1865. WM H. BENNETT
U. S. MARSHAL [illegible] Oregon.
J. N. Dolph U.S. Att'y. [illegible]
